- IV. The composition must be written for a good level amateur choir and a professional organist and must have a maximum duration of 5 minutes. On the sheet music the suggested duration must be indicated. In the final concert and during the 2023 Competition for Choir and Organ, as provided for in Article X, the choir will be located in front of the altar; conductor and organist will be in visual contact through camera/monitor.
- V. Each composer can participate only with one piece. The music sheet must be written with a proper musical program and sent by email in PDF format. Audio files, paper-based documents or other devices will not be allowed. The music sheet will be anonymous and distinguished by an identification motto, to be reported on the registration form.
- VI. The partecipant will send the application form in PDF format completed with personal details, the indication of the motto, the authorization for the use of personal data and a statement that the composition has never been published or awarded in other contests. A false statement implies the expulsion from the contest.

Only anonymous music sheets will be sent to the jury, who will not know the names of the partecipants until the award ceremony.

- VII. When registering, a fee of 50 euros should be paid by bank transfer. The author's identification motto must be specified on the payment details and the receipt must be sent in PDF format along with the registration form.
- VIII. The registration forms and the music sheet must be sent to info@ecclesianova.it at the latest by 1st October 2022. The composition cannot be modified after sending.
- IX. The jury will be made up of composers, organists and choir conductors of international renown. The evaluation will be done in two steps:

1st step (eliminatory round): all the submissions will be evaluated by the jury using the following criteria: composing techniques, knowledge of the Organ instrument and of the Choir instrument, rhetoric effect, originality. The feasibility of the piece by a good level amateur choir will be also an evaluation criterion. The six best pieces will move on to the next step. The authors will be informed about the results of the first step within the end of October 2022.

2nd step (final round): a public concert will take place on 3rd December 2022 in Bosco Chiesanuova Church, in which the selected six best pieces will be performed by a good level amateur choir and a professional organist, both arranged by the Organization. The jury will evaluate the compositions in their whole efficacy and decide the final ranking. At the end of the concert there will be the award ceremony.

The judgement of the jury shall be final and irrevocable.

X. The winners will receive the following prizes:

1st: 1500,00 eur 2nd: 1000,00 eur 3rd: 500,00 eur

The jury will also award a special mention to other deserving compositions, if any. Prizes and mentions, at the jury's absolute discretion, may be not assigned. An audience prize will also be awarded (500,00 eur) for the piece most voted by the public during the concert. All the prizes are intended as a support to the composer and will be sent by bank transfer; in case of parity the prizes are to be split ex aequo among the winners.

The authors of the six pieces chosen for the final round will be accommodated by the Organization with food and lodging.

Within the 2nd Competition for Choir and Organ, which will be held in Bosco Chiesanuova in 2023, a Special Prize will be awarded for the best performance of one of the awarded compositions in Caecilia Virgo contest history.

- XI. The copyright of the compositions will be guaranteed to the composer. Music Association Ecclesia Nova reserves the right of the first release on paper and/or digital support of the compositions, and the right for audio/video disclosure of the executions within the award ceremony and the Contest for Choir and Organ.
- XII. The participation to this Contest implies the knowledge and the full acceptance of the regulation.
- XIII. The provisions of the Italian Civil Code and special laws will be applied for all matters not explicitly provided by this Competition notice. Any specific complaint must refer to the Italian version of this announcement.
- XIV. Any dispute will be submitted to the judgement of the court of Verona.
